Farm Energy Self-sufficiency

Take control of your electricity costs with a farm solar array.

It is now economic to install solar arrays on farms.

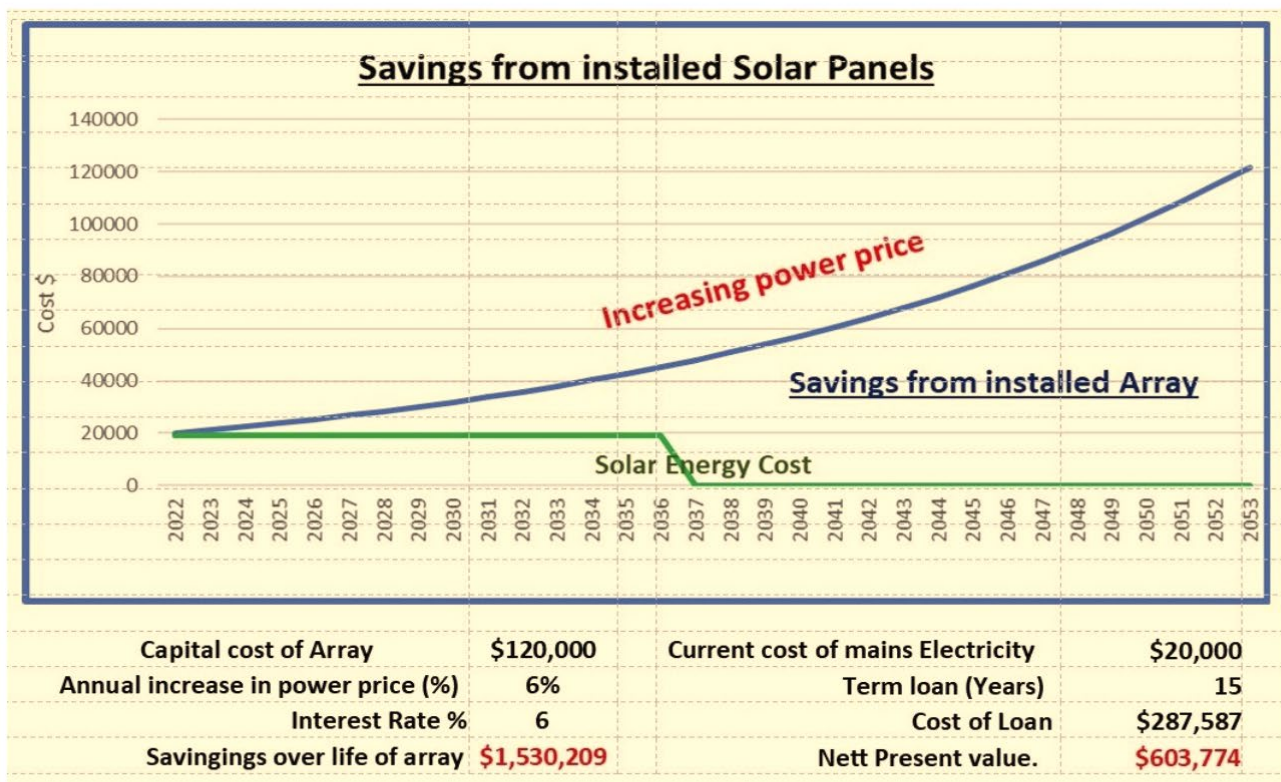

Electricity prices are increasing with inflation and increased demand.

New technology allows you to become energy self-sufficient.

Farmers have to accept most farm costs. Owning your own solar array gives you control of your electricity costs, and future-proofs you against electricity price increases.

Start saving on energy costs now - Solar array packages from less than $20,000.

The most efficient electricity system is one where electricity is generated where it is consumed.

For further information please contact Alastair Frizzell. email: alastair@frizzell.co.nz or phone: 03 318 1333.

Wholesale Electricity prices have doubled in the last twelve months.

If you own the panels, you get the full benefit of fixed electricity costs.

When someone else owns the panels, they get the benefit, and you will have increasing electricity costs.
