Katie is a current New Zealand representative in women's Volleyball.

She was born in Nelson and attended Waimea College. Katie played almost every sport available throughout her schooling including Basketball, Soccer, Athletics, Cross Country and Swimming. However, Volleyball ended up being Katie's passion and the sport she experienced the most success in.

Katie was not always successful at Volleyball. She missed out on being in the starting team and sat on the bench for most of year nine and ten. She missed out on selection for the school Senior A team in year eleven and was constantly being put in different positions but predominantly she played setter and outside hitter.

It was not until year twelve that her persistence and hard work began to pay off. A new coach recognised her potential and selected her for the Senior A team.

Her success in the sport grew from that point on. Katie was selected for the New Zealand U19 Volleyball team in 2010 and 2011. Following this success Katie applied for Volleyball scholarships in America, and was successful in gaining a full scholarship to University of Louisiana Lafayette where she studied Dietetics. She completed 2.5 years there before making the decision to transfer to Saint Leo University in Florida for her final semester in America. It was in 2015, and during her time in America that Katie was first selected for the New Zealand Women's Volleyball team. Since her first appearance in the black and silver uniform Katie has remained a valued member of the team.

Katie has graduated from Saint Leo University with a Bachelor of Science majoring in Biology and is currently residing in Nelson before she plans to move within New Zealand to pursue further study.
