

With PwC, the future of work looks a lot like you!

Are you a final year student who'd like to do tertiary study but need some help getting there? Would some financial support, a PwC mentor and the opportunity to apply for a paid summer internship at PwC be what you need to launch your career? Then this opportunity could be for you.

Mā te huruhuru ka rere te manu Scholarship

Our Mā te huruhuru ka rere te manu Scholarship is designed to give young Māori talent the best start possible by providing financial support during tertiary study, a mentor and an opportunity to apply for a paid Summer Internship.

The name of this scholarship is a whakatauki that translates to 'Adorn a bird with feathers and it will fly.' This whakataukī is the foundation of what PwC would like to achieve by awarding this scholarship to talented young Māori. So apply now and develop your skills in new and unexpected ways.

PwC Scholarship

The PwC Scholarship is designed to support students facing financial and/or personal hardship, restricting your ability to enter tertiary education. We want to give five talented young people the best start possible. So apply now and develop your skills in new and unexpected ways.

What do the PwC and Mā te huruhuru ka rere te manu scholarships include?

$7,000 towards your tertiary studies (fees and course related costs) over the course of your degree.

A PwC mentor for the duration of your tertiary studies (Mā te huruhuru ka rere te manu Scholarship recipients will be matched with a mentor from the Manukura Māori Business team). An opportunity to apply for a paid Summer Internship.

Access to business networks at our social and scholarship events.

The opportunity to learn about what we do behind the scenes at PwC.
