

Room 10 – Mahalla - Not So Traditional Happy Ending

Everyone knows the classic story of Cinderella. The fairy godmother, golden carriage, the evil stepmother. All of that is true though the ending actually happened a little different.

Hello, my name is Ella, or as some prefer to call me, Cinderella. I'm sure you already know the start of my story. Dead parents, evil stepmother, fairies, carriages, blah blah blah. How about I skip to the good part? Here we go.

I arrived at the palace in my beautiful gown and glass slippers and went inside. It was a very extravagant soiree with many eligible bachelors in sight and yet, my eyes were drawn to one man, who I later recognized was the prince of the kingdom. I walked up to him and introduced myself (rather elegantly if I do say so myself!). He, on the other hand, tripped over and mumbled something to himself before eventually saying, "Hey!" He was drunk. My only chance with him and he was intoxicated! "Wanna dance?" he asked. I hesitantly took his hand and we started dancing. He was surprisingly very coordinated for his state. I fell in love!

You already know what happens next so I'll just give a brief overview. 12 o'clock, clothes disappear, ran away, left my shoe.

The next day, I woke up and to my surprise, there was a kingdom-wide search for me. Apparently, he fell in love too. His 'brilliant idea' was to try my shoe on every girl in the kingdom. He didn't even remember my face! That's when I realized that I deserved more than a man who couldn't even remember what I looked like! I didn't try on the shoe.

In the end, my Prince Charming married another woman who he thought was me (same shoe size) and I crashed their wedding. And me, I went to law school and became a very successful lawyer.

Room 8 – Olley - Two Elves and the Bakery

One day, there was a baker with his wife in a bakery. They were poor. One night, they left dough on the table. Next morning, it was bread! He sold it for ten more dollars. They are happy but they wanted to see how it happened so they hid. They saw little elves making bread. They finished it. The next day, the baker made food for the elves. They got chased out of the bakery by a cat, never to come back because they were scared of the cat.

Room 7 – Casey - Sleeping Ruby

Once upon a time in a castle full of gems and precious rocks, a baby was born. Her parents called her Ruby. Ruby grew up to be a beautiful young lady but her parents were hiding one secret from her. Ruby was cursed when she was a young girl making her unable to see a ruby without falling to sleep for 50 years. When Ruby was at a royal ball, a mysterious man came up to her and asked, "Have you ever wondered what your name means?" Ruby replied, "No. What does it mean?" The man whispered in her ear that it meant, "A magical gem. I will put it in your hand. Only look when I am gone." Ruby felt him slip a heavy ring on her finger. She was eager to look but she resisted until the man had disappeared down the stone steps and into the night. The second she looked at her finger, she fell into a deep sleep. News spread around the kingdom... anyone that woke Ruby would get a huge award of $100,000,000. Men and their horses were coming from every angle, desperately trying to wake the sleeping Ruby. Finally, after 10 years of waiting, a brave lady come to inspect the scene. She had been told the secret so she knew she just had to take the ruby off Ruby's hand. Just as fast as she went to sleep, Ruby woke up. As payment, Ruby married the brave lady's son and the curse was broken.

They lived happily ever after.

Room 7 – Amelia - The True Story of Rumplestiltskin and Tinkerbell

Once upon a time in a faraway land, there lived a dashing young maiden. Although she was beautiful, she was the most vain young lady you ever did meet. Her name was... Rumplestiltskin! Not too far away, there lived a hideous, wrinkly old goblin called Bradley. Bradley was madly in love with Rumplestiltskin so one day, he decided to propose. Rumplestiltskin was not happy at all about this, but her mother was thrilled! She thought that the marriage might knock some sense into Rumplestiltskin and make her more polite. So, it was decided that the marriage would take place in three weeks time. This made Rumplestiltskin furious! So, while raging at her mother, Rumplestiltskin hatched a plan! Rumplestiltskin knew that Bradley was famous for making rather daft deals that often had a ginormous impact on his wealth. So, the next day, Rumplestiltskin set off on horseback seeking out Bradley to tell him her news. Once she found Bradley inside his pongy, ancient cottage, she made a rather devious deal that he guess her mother's name in three goes then the marriage would endure. But, if he did not, the wedding would be cancelled. This made Bradley snigger. He thought that Rumplestiltskin's mother would have an obvious name like Susan or Barbara. And so, he guessed. "Is it Sara?" "No." "Is it Linda?" "No." "Is it... Diana?" "What? Absolutely not!" Her name is Tinkerbell.

Room 6 – Annalise - The Three Unicorns Gruff

Once upon a time, there lived three unicorns. One named Bubbles. She was the youngest. The middle unicorn was named Sparkles, then the oldest yet dumbest was named KCU. One day, when they were on their last supply of dried up grass, Bubbles went for a little trot after a while. Suddenly, Sparkles and KCU heard a noise. "Sparkles! KCU! Come quick! Come quick!" So they galloped as fast as their little skinny legs could take them. When they reached Bubbles, they looked around to see what Bubbles was on about. Then Bubbles said, "Look across that bridge at that scrumptious looking grass!" "Where?" asked KCU. "Right there!" said Bubbles turning his head. Then they all agreed to cross the bridge. First went Bubbles. "Who's that trip, trip, tripping over my bridge?" came a voice. "Just me, Bubbles. Don't eat me, my sisters are bigger." said Bubbles. "Fine. Go!" said the troll. Then came Sparkles. "Who's that trip, trip, tripping over my bridge?" came a voice. "Just me. Let me go. KCU is coming so please spare me." "Fine!" Then KCU came and out jumped the troll. "Imma going to eat you!" "No!" Then KCU karate chopped the troll into space. "K stands for karate, C stands for chopping, and U for unicorn."

Room 5 – Aubrey - The Gingerbread Dog

Once upon a time, there were two elders who loved to bake. Then they thought they would make a gingerbread man. So they did. When the old lady pulled it out of the oven, it looked a bit funny looking. It looked like a dog!! Then it jumped up and said, "You can't eat me, only if you treat me." So, it ran as fast as a cheetah. It ran into a farm and she saw two sheep and they said, "Baa! We love gingerbread dogs. Baa!" She said, "You can't eat me, only if you treat me." Then she came across an old cow that was slow and said, "Do you like grass?" and she said, "No!" So the sheep and the cow were chasing her! Then she came across a HUGE bull! It loved to eat gingerbread so started running towards the gingerbread dog. The gingerbread dog came across a funny looking gingerbread cat! He loved to be sly to other gingerbread people or animals so he said, "Do you need help getting across the river?" The cat said, "Yes, please!" Then the gingerbread dog dropped he in the river to drown forever!
