

ADELAIDE

Adelaide is a well known huntress of Slinsil. Men stumble over her for her love while other girls aspire to be like her. She is a key provider of meat for Slinsil as she is a fine shot with her bow. She was raised in the Praetor's castle, where she was found as a child.

Adelaide has a strong athletic form from years of hunting. She is often called by the Praetor's General to eliminate Kraznirien spies or even those who may have accidentally strayed too far from Kraznir's territory. She has long luscious brown hair that falls down her entire back. You will never find Adelaide without her bow and a sheath of arrows. They were given to her by the Praetor as a gift for all she does for the community of Slinsil. The sheath of arrows has a special property and is constantly refilling itself. She wears a simple long grey top and tights that help her camouflage while hunting.

Adelaide has a hard working nature and you will never find her without a task to do. She has a calm approach to stressful situations and never fails to keep a cool head. She is a born leader who is always fair and honest. She can be overprotective of those that she cares for and can sometimes try and hold them back for fear of them getting hurt. She is known to lash out at those who question her about her past.

Adelaide's key skill is shooting. She can hit any target from over 100m away. As well as this she has an all round set of abilities. She would be considered smart but not the smartest. Fast but not the fastest. Strong but not the strongest.

Adelaide is a vital weapon for Slinsil to have. Her abilities are so important that without them there would not be enough meat for the people of Slinsil. She is a great leader and is perfect for the leader of the spies.
