THE BOY WHO LIVED

It was the last night that Lilly and James Potter lived their lives. One Halloween in 1981 Godric hollow, the family gather around a warm blazing fire. Suddenly they heard footsteps, creaking and shadows drawing closer until Voldemort submerged from the darkness. Then with a swish of his wand the battle began.

The fearsome fight went on for hours. Magic swished in the air as bright and beautiful as the Northen lights. Soon with a flash Lilly and James dropped to the ground lifeless. There was a silent moment broken by Voldemort wand swishing towards Harry but nothing happened. Left with a scar, now going to hogwarts, that's the story of the boy who lived
