

We believe that in empowering individuals to understand who they are and what they uniquely bring, and teaching how this may translate into purpose driven work which addresses some of the significant challenges our world faces, the outcome will have ripple effects. Our work is focused on building and delivering strong frameworks, tools, storytelling mediums and discussion platforms that allow young people to be inspired and equipped.

So, specifically how do we do that?

OUR THEORY:

The purpose behind choosing these different mediums is largely due to our focus on inclusiveness and barrier-breakdown. We understand that not every student understands, communicates and processes in the same manner, and we aim to accommodate this in the best ways that we can. By incorporating workshops alongside speakers and activities paired with visual content, we are making an effort to cover as many of the bases that we can in order to convey the messages we are most passionate about.

HOW WE DELIVER:

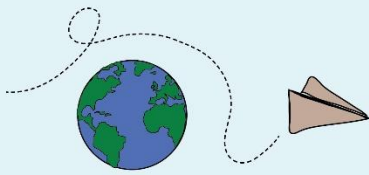

We've chosen to convey these messages through workshops, speaker sessions, our Online Portal, the interactive journal, and film. Each of these different forms of communication provide a unique way to relate to the individual and their way of processing, understanding and connecting. By incorporating both practical and theoretical content, we are hoping to stimulate as well as educate students in a way that shows how to follow through and act on what they learn.

STRATEGIC FOCUS FOR 2018:

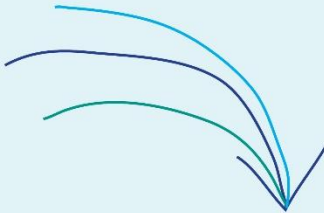

To create more intensive creative content that assists Limitless' message of empowerment, purpose, and passion most effectively. We are extending our hands to reach out and in to the circles that need attention and growth. To accomplish this, we are going into more depth and detail in regards to the workshop content, visual accompaniments (promotionally as well as conference resources), and web-focused developments.

We hope that this year's conference and Year 11 follow-up day brings about new opportunities for growth, awareness, challenges and foundation building.

World View
 The world that we are living in now is always moving, evolving, evoking. What aspects of our society challenges us? How does this affect me and others? What systems are already in place that make it more difficult or easier for me to grow?

Who I am & What I bring
 What are my strengths? How do I work? What are the values that guide my decisions? Where do I come from?

Application
 How and where do my strengths fit in at school, my job, my relationships with my family and friends? In the wider picture; how do I connect who I am and what I bring, to work that addresses those significant challenges we know exist?

Connection
 How can I utilise these various traits to benefit my growth and interactions? Who are the people, and what the opportunities out there that can help me grow and develop my skills and strengths? What will I do tomorrow, next week, next year to explore my options and create a path towards work with purpose?

Workshops

These give us an opportunity to support young people to apply the concepts we have discussed to their own lives, looking into what this may mean for them through visual frameworks and activities etc.

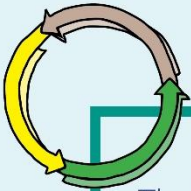

Speaker Sessions

Each speaker brings a unique set of skills and insight combined with encouragement for students, accompanied by visual content to stimulate and engage its audience in a personal way.

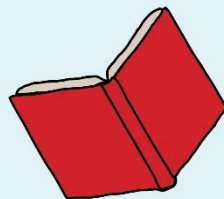

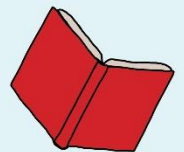

Portal

The Online Portal has been created as a place to connect young people with relevant opportunities for their development through partnerships with other youth organizations providing quality opportunities for young people.

Journal

This journal, co-created with young people and with the input of subject matter experts, is designed with activities and mindful practises designed with a purpose of encouraging the students to practise and live out what they learnt at the conference.

Film

Telling stories and weaving narratives through this medium can be effective and compelling in telling the stories we wish to see carried through.

FOR 2018:

Our strategic focus for 2018 is on developing and building our content and resources, in order to deliver a high quality and transformative program to young people throughout the Canterbury and West Coast region.

We aim for our program to deliver content and messages in a way that is compelling, cohesive and that makes sense for young people, empowering them to build self-awareness, confidence and tools that enable them to explore and pursue work with purpose.

What if we could empower every young New Zealander to do work they are passionate about?
