...day, a lonely wolf was slowly walking along the banks of the river when he suddenly spotted something in the bush to his right.

...m, thought the grey wolf, who's hiding under the bush?

adjectives	adverbs	nouns	verbs
Adjectives add description to nouns i.e. quickly, slowly, suddenly.	Adverbs add description to verbs i.e. quickly, slowly, suddenly.	Nouns describe things, people and places like a bridge, road, tiger, person.	Verbs describe actions like run, jump, smile.

Analysis
GREAT! You've landed on the grid!
Your writing style is: Descriptive with some action. Internal monologue/thoughtful.
Genres:
Non-fiction such as, travel commentary, gardening articles.
Fiction such as, internal monologue, observation, science fiction fantasy.
If that's what you are going for then great! Otherwise, consider shifting across or down by adding some extra verbs and perhaps couple adverbs to inject some additional feeling.
At the moment you are using adjectives and nouns (see below for explanations of these terms if you're not too sure about them) so you are describing someone's or some thing's appearance, but you are also using a few verbs and adverbs.
