

Dear: Family

It's been a long time since I ate your delicious juicy dumplings. I have had past memories when dad and I played my video games, I feel very grateful that I get to write this letter to you.

It was dreadful and horrendous when I had to move around in the muddy, sticky and boggy trenches whilst carrying a heavy vest that was like 10kg, it was like sleeping while standing up. The food there was awful, everytime I tried to eat those, soggy, wet and freezing corn beef, it just kept getting worse. As I moved around, all I hear is gun shots, explosions and my friends and foe screaming for help as I was frozen in fright, I was helpless... I work as a sniper so I stay at the back. All I smell is dead rotting corpses.

In the future I wish to reunite with you and play video games with dad and finally eat your ecstatic food, I also want to pet our dog, Trever. I miss you so much.

From: your dearest, Danny
