

Fortunately, Unfortunately

By Elma

My mother wakes me up with a singing voice saying good morning darling, you have to get ready to go on your trip to christchurch with Ayesha, ever, annabelle, neveah, jamie, and my dog tina and paige." i get ready to pack all my stuff my clothes my toothbrush and tooth paste and my hair brush. After that i say goodbye to my family and whistle to get my dog tina and head to the bus stop, finding that all my friends are on the bus waving hello through the window. Unfortunately as i was about step on the bus with my dog the bus driver said that i wasn't allowed to bring my dog on the bus. Fortunately i convinced the bus driver that my dog will behave on the bus so the bus driver agreed to it. Unfortunately the bus driver took a wrong turn and made us go the long way.

Fortunately the bus driver new a shortcut. Unfortunately the shortcut was closed by the road workers. Fortunately

One of the road workers said there was another shortcut but he warned us to be careful because it's really bumpy and it has high cliffs. Unfortunately as we were going down the bumpy road with sharp rocks and a cliff right beside us the bus driver accidentally did a right turn without looking and we fell down the cliff. Fortunately down below us was a river. Unfortunately it leaded to a WATERFALL!!

Fortunately at the bottom of the waterfall was a floaty that could fit a whole bus and float the whole bus with ease. Unfortunately the floaty had a hole in it and we all sank to the bottom of the river. Fortunately as we were at the bottom of the river racing through the waves the bottom of the river was absolutely beautiful!! It had colourful fish with red blue coral and purple coral it was beautiful. Unfortunately a bunch of crocodiles were chasing us from the back of the bus. Fortunately they couldn't get us because they were too slow. Unfortunately the crocodiles were young and they were even faster than the the the older one's. Fortunately the young ones couldn't catch up with us so we lost them. Unfortunately the bus driver announced that we were going down a rocky water fall filled with sharp rocks. fortunately when we went down the rocky road while getting hit by the rocks on the edges there was no hole to be found. Unfortunately the bus tipped over and landed upside down because there was a massive rock underneath the river that you can see but can easily tip something huge. Fortunately noone was hurt. Unfortunately while the bus was upside down the escape door that was on top of the bus that every bus had on its roof all the water came running in frantically and the bus was absolutely filled with water and we all had to hold our breath for a couple of seconds. Fortunately everyone could swim and we swam out safely even my dog tina [in real life my dog can swim so yeah]

And as we got out we all gasped for air while my dog was just sitting there wondering what we were doing. Unfortunately we were stranded on an island filled with wild animals like tigers lions elephants and other things. Fortunately we all had useful supplies like some rope a drink bottle witch everybody had and other sorts of things. unfortunately the bus driver said that this island was dangerous so we had to travel and find a way to get off this island. Fortunately my dog could sniff our way out of the island but we had to be careful and we had to watch out for some wild animals out here. Unfortunately at night there was a big massive flood we tried to avoid it but got caught and was washed away. Fortunately we all saw each other and we noticed that there was a sign that said we were 10 minutes away from Christchurch. Unfortunately we noticed that we had to walk all the way. Fortunately there was someone who helped us get to christchurch and they were really nice and friendly and once we made it we thanked the person and went off. THE END!!
