Everything I always wanted to know about peace, but was afraid to ask : Learnings from my first ten years in Aotearoa

Dr Daniel Fridberg

Programme Lead of the Graduate Diploma in Conflict Resolution, Otago Polytechnic

Over the past 25 years, Danny has practised conflict resolution internationally and locally, including dialogue group facilitation; peacebuilding project management and evaluation; mediation; public participation processes and consensus building; research; training and teaching. In his conflict resolution practice, he emphasises the importance of relationship building and restoration. Danny strongly believes that resolving conflicts requires long-term thinking, where mutual gains and healthy relationship are key to wellbeing and success. He holds a PhD in Peace and Conflict Studies from the University of Otago, an MA in Conflict Research, Management and Resolution and a BA in Psychology, both from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Join us for our 21st Annual Open Peace Lecture featuring a conversation with Dr Daniel Fridberg and three panel members representing the Muslim, Jewish and Christian faiths. It is preceded by a community meal at Araiteiuru Marae (by koha).
