Advent of Ritualism

Father Hugh Bowron presented a lecture on Saturday 2 March 2019 at St Peter's Caversham.....

Ritualism was the second stage of the Oxford movement which sought to bring back the Anglican Communion to aspects of catholic practice than had been lost after the Reformation. It was much more than bringing back outward trappings such as candles, vestments, mixing water with the wine for Eucharist and so on: it sought to bring about faith with a new energy and beauty that spoke to ordinary men and women.

It was not without its controversy in this southern part of NZ, and Hugh recalled some of the acrimony reported in local newspapers of the time, and significant tussles that took place in parishes such as St John the Evangelist in Roslyn, where in the 1880s one vicar left after 6 years of unrelenting pressure. There were some fascinating pictures shown as part of Hugh's presentation, including one of the interior of the Mission Church in Flagstaff (associated with Roslyn) where Ritualism was fully expressed. Hugh also gave an account of how St Peter's in Caversham moved towards Anglo-Catholicism after a rather rocky beginning.

Fr. Hugh is working towards producing a book that will capture some of this fascinating history, including how from being an expression of faith seen as "suspect", it moved more into the mainstream from around 1910. One significant aspect of this was a Mission carried out in the Diocese around this time, where 9 out of 16 missionaries were Anglo Catholic. In some places (for example, Rev'd Evans in Riverton) had an enormous impact on the local community, many who had never experienced the ceremony and colour of this form of worship, or heard before the Gospel preached with such power and simplicity. During the period between World War I and World War II the Diocese of Dunedin became known as one of moderate Anglo-Catholicism, seizing the liberal ground and speaking to the social needs of the time. In a sea of Presbyterianism, it provided a strong contrast to the dominant culture.

We have responded with the following as St Mathew's Parish was mentioned in this article: Bishop Steven advises that with regard to the Parish of St Matthew's in Dunedin "The Vicar of St Matthew's, Dunedin, Stu Crosson, has resigned, effective of February 14th, but the church and parish remains. And although some may choose to leave with the vicar, the Diocese is committed to maintaining an Anglican presence in the area. Already I have had good meetings with those who have not decided to leave and I am excited about the future ministry of the parish."

News from Fiordland: Noeline Adam

Southland District Council (SDC) Mayor, Gary Tong presented Noeline Adam with her Community Service award, alongside another local recipient Margo Shaw, surrounded by family and friends in Te Anau recently.

Noeline and Ken Adam have lived in the Te Anau basin for most of their married life having won a Lands and Survey farm ballot there, with their whole life seeming to focus around contributing to the community.

They were both very active in raising money, working and participating in the decisions to build the Vicarage beside the Anglican Church, St Michael and All Angels, over 30 years ago along with the recent extensions to the church.

Noeline's special gift has been through her musical talents, playing the organ nearly every Sunday for over 30 years, or if she was going to be away she played the music on to a tape so the hymns and songs of praise were still part of the services. Not only did she play for the Anglicans, but she also played in all the other churches in Te Anau when needed, for ecumenical services, weddings and funerals alongside local schools' events.

She was part of all the church activities such as AAW and Vestry and became the Pastoral Team convenor when the parish became a Local Shared Ministry Parish.

Music was a major part of the reason she was given the SDC Community award as she played the piano for Fiordland Players theatre group annual productions , giving hours of service in that capacity after she joined in the early 1990s, alongside being secretary and treasurer at various times.

Fiordland Community House has seen Noeline as a regular volunteer since it opened.

There were several farewells and gifts given, alongside thankfulness for both Ken and Noeline's long service to the Te Anau community with best wishes going with them to Darfield as they move their retirement home to be nearer family.

Bereavement

It is with deep sadness, but also great thankfulness for many years of faithful service, that I write to let you know of the death of Reverend Victor Beaumont.

On behalf of the Diocese, I extend our deepest sympathies to Brenda and their family at this time. We hold them in our prayers.

The funeral for Rev'd Vic Beaumont is on Thursday 7 March 2019 at 11am at St Paul's Cathedral. For Clergy attending and wishing to robe, please wear cassock, surplice, preaching scarf or stole (purple).

May he rest in peace and rise in glory.

Insurance Cover for Open Door Churches

We recently had an interesting query about insurance cover for church buildings that are left open during the day. Read on for some of the advice we were given from our insurers. If this sounds like you, Wardens may like to put this on Vestry meeting agendas under Health and Safety.

The Parish asked the following questions:

Question: Our church is one of a few that remains open for visitors, many of whom wish to view our magnificent stained glass windows. However, I am concerned whether this could compromise our insurance and whether the company would wish to know about this.

Answer: Our insurance broker (AIB) have said:

The insurers will want to see the churches policy/ risk assessment which should include things like:

- How isolated?/ when unattended?
- Only open in daylight hours
- Local residents are aware/ pop in etc.
- Valuables securely stored
- Some of our historic churches have camera's and registers
- premises/ areas open to the public should present no danger to the public!

In general, the insurers want to know that you are taking "reasonable precautions" – so if you could have a bit of a think about some of those details and draw up a "risk assessment" then at least you will have some evidence that you have taken some precautions. If you want to give a copy of the risk assessment to the Diocesan Office, we will keep that on file.

Question. We also have a concern as we believe that a "rough sleeper" takes refuge there occasionally. He spends a great deal of time on the road I believe so this would not happen often. He has been asked not to but we are not sure that he complies.

Answer: This probably just comes under the general risk of leaving it unlocked – so it comes back to what "reasonable precautions" you are taking.

Question: Might we need to adjust our premiums accordingly?

Answer: It depends on whether you decide to actually notify the insurers. In this particular case we have confirmed that insurers don't have to be specifically notified, it is sufficient that you are taking "reasonable precautions". There is some risk with this approach i.e. if something bad were to happen and you made a claim, the insurers might conclude that in fact you were not taking "reasonable precautions". You have to weigh up that risk against the possibility that you specifically advise the insurers that the door is left open and they increase your premium – unfortunately this is not the sort of thing we can get a quote on.

Question: On looking at what we are covered for I would like your advice as to whether the sum we are insured for is sufficient to cover church replacement should that ever come to pass. Our church is a simple wooden one but building and materials seem so expensive. I wonder whether our cover is in line with other small churches.

Answer (for this Parish): All of our building cover tends to be at the low end - it seems quite likely that cover is actually insufficient for most of our churches and the Diocese is looking into the possibility of getting a Diocesan-wide valuation schedule going. This will take some time, however, and is likely to be done in stages (with the bigger churches first). If you are very concerned you are always welcome to get your own valuation done and adjust your cover accordingly. Many small congregations, however, take the view that if the worst happens and the building is destroyed, then at that point they will rethink everything.

New Police Vetting requirements - FAQs

Best practice and Diocesan policy is that everyone holding a Bishop's Licence (Clergy or Lay) or involved with other active ministry in a Church (eg Children's Church) is required to have a Police vetting check undertaken every three years. Please read on for further information and FAQs plus a summary presentation given at the Lay Ministers Conference on 22nd February.....

Please note that currently the main group of people needing to complete the Police vetting check are those applying to be Licensed or re-Licensed as Lay Ministers. All Lay Minister Licences expire at Pentecost this year.

Those holding a Bishop's Licence as a Priest do not need to action this until you are contacted individually by the Bishop's office when your Licence is due for renewal. Police vetting checks usually are timed to be undertaken when a Licence is renewed or issued.

1. Why do I have to have a Police Vetting check done?

Over the last few years there have been some significant legislation changes in New Zealand and an increasing need for all kinds of sectors in New Zealand to comply with this.

The Diocese, in common with all other Dioceses in New Zealand, sees going through this process as not only as best practice but essential for us to ensure that both the people offering the ministry and those we minister to are safeguarded. It is a basic requirement for ministry and involvement in the Church. This process is being echoed by other public and not-for-profit organisations that are involved with the care of others, especially children, young people and those considered vulnerable in any way. It increases our credibility in society, and helps to remind others that the church is in touch with reality.

It is important for the safety for everyone concerned, and for other agencies we work with, that we are really open and transparent and Police vetting is part of this process.

We don't ever expect that any issues will be raised by the Police vetting of people working on behalf of the Diocese but it provides an important safety net. In the event that anyone's status may change, it's really important that you let us know.

2. I have already had a recent Police check done for my employment/another role I have, do I have to complete a Police vetting for the Diocese?

Yes. While you may have a Police vetting check as part of an existing job or role, the check is only valid for when it is completed and for the requirements of that role. A Police vetting through the Diocese will be at a level which meets Diocesan requirements and at the level of risk for the ministry role you have with the Diocese.

3. What is the difference between Police vetting and Ministry of Justice criminal record check?

Police provide a vetting service for approved agencies that provide care to children, older people and vulnerable members of society in New Zealand.

A Police vetting result may include any information held by New Zealand Police whereas a Ministry of Justice criminal record check will only contain conviction history. For the purposes of the Diocese, it is best practice for the fuller Police vetting to be completed.

4. Why has the process changed significantly since I received my last licence?

It has been Diocesan policy for some time that Police vetting be undertaken at re-licencing time, the beginning of a new Licence or role, but the procedure for completing Police vetting applications has recently changed.

The Vulnerable Children Act 2014 and its Regulations have changed the requirements to apply for a Police Vetting check. All checks for those involved in ministry in the Diocese are submitted through the Diocesan office as an "Approved Agency".

5. What is the process for a Police Vetting Check?

An application form must be completed and returned to

Nicola Wong

EA to Bishop Steven Benford

PO Box 13170

Dunedin 9052,

along with copies of two forms of ID - primary and secondary.

These copies need to be noted as true and correct copies either at the Diocesan Office or by an Identity Referee.

The applications are lodged with the Police vetting agency through the Bishop's office.

6. Is there an application fee?

As a registered charity, the Diocese is exempt for charges with New Zealand Police vetting.

7. How current do my ID types have to be?

Current identity documents are preferred, but documents that have expired within the past five years may be accepted (eg passport). Please contact Nicola Wong for specific information.

8. What is a primary ID ?

Primary IDs are:

- Passport (NZ or Overseas)
- NZ Firearms Licence
- NZ Full Birth Certificate (issued on or after 1998)
- NZ Citizenship Certificate
- NZ Refugee Travel Document
- NZ Emergency Travel Document
- NZ Certificate of Identity

8. What is a secondary ID?

Secondary IDs include:

- NZ Driver Licence
- 18+ card
- NZ Full Birth Certificate (issued before 1998)
- Community Services card
- SuperGold Card
- NZ Employee Photo Identification Card
- NZ Student Photo Identification Card
- Inland Revenue number
- NZ issued utility bill (issued not more than six months earlier)
- NZ Teachers Registration certificate
- NZ Electoral Roll Record
- International Driving Permit
- Steps to Freedom Form

9. I don't have any form of Primary ID.

We don't think that the cost of a new birth certificate should be prohibitive to being licensed or undertaking ministry and would encourage people for whom this might be a concern, to discuss this with their faith community. A standard birth certificate is required by the Police. (See the Dept of Internal Affairs webpage for more information. Current cost is $33.)

10. What is needed if one of my ID types doesn't have a photograph (eg. I have a birth certificate and IRD number)?

There are some solutions to this - please don't let it put you off the process. Please contact Nicola Wong in the Diocesan office for more information and help.

11. Who is an Identity Referee? Who can witness my documents as true copies?

You can do this in person at the Diocesan office.

If you can't come into the Diocesan office, than Evidence of Identity checks may be completed by an Identity Referee.

An Identity Referee must be:

- be either a person of standing in the community (e.g. registered professional, religious or community leader, Police employee) or registered with the Approved Agency (a Clergy person)
- be over 16 years of age.
- not be related or a partner/spouse.
- not be a co-resident of the applicant.

12. How does an Identity Referee certify my documents?

To verify an applicant's identity, the Identity Referee must:

1. Sight the original versions of each identity document.
2. Compare the photographic image with the applicant to confirm they are the same person.
3. Sign and date a copy of each document to verify that the documents produced by the applicant relate to that person.
4. Provide his or her name and contact details.
5. Send the signed identity documents to the Approved Agency.

13. I still have some questions about the process...

Please phone Nicola Wong at the Diocesan office for further help and information 03 488 0826.

Do you have a Chalice and Paten needing a new home?

Leslie Groves are hoping someone may be able to help in the search for a Chalice and Paten for the Chapel in their hospital.....

If anyone has a Chalice or Paten needing a new home or available on a long term loan, Leslie Groves would be very pleased to offer a home to them, for use in the weekly Eucharist services held in the Chapel at their hospital.

Please contact Rev'd Barbara Dineen for further information.
